AUCTION OVERVIEW:

The auction features a number of rare and unusual tribal art works, hailing from a wide range of worldwide locations. The highlights include an interesting group of Hawaiian bowls dating from the 19th century, these were made for communal feast sharing, as well as a Sepik river overlaid skull of an ancestor and an impressive Punu figure from Gabon. Another intriguing piece is a rare 19th century Igala Helmet mask from Nigeria, such masks were used during village celebrations and they symbolise ancestors.

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
 Endangered species: items made of or incorporating plant or animal material, such as ivory, whalebone, tortoiseshell, etc., irrespective of age or value may require a licence or certificate prior to exportation, and may also require additional licences or certificates upon importation to any country outside the EU. Please note that the ability to obtain an export licence or certificate does not ensure the ability to obtain an import licence or certificate in another country, and vice versa. For example, it is illegal to import elephant ivory under 100 years old into the United States. The Auction Room suggests that prospective buyers check with their own government regarding wildlife import requirements prior to leaving a bid. It is the buyer's responsibility to obtain any export or import licences and/or certificates as well as any other required documentation.

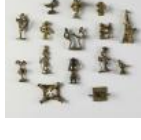

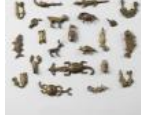

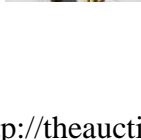

Please note that lots affected by these requirements are marked accordingly in the catalogue.
